Gold Medal Awards

The Gold Medal Award is presented to members whose extraordinary service and dedication to the profession and the Society merits this type of recognition. Not more than two of these honors may be awarded annually. In 1956-59, awards were given by Founder, Wilfred J. Gregson, at the First Assembly of the Society in Kansas City, Missouri, in 1959. Successive Gold Medal Awards are awarded yearly by the president of the Society.

Gregson Leadership Awards

Designated the Society's second highest award, the Gregson Founder Award is presented to members for particularly outstanding service and dedication to the Society and the profession. The symbol of this award, a tie made in the tartan plaid of Founder Wilfred J. Gregson's Scottish ancestors, is given to the recipients. No specific number of these awards is made, and it varies from year-to-year as judged, to service rendered, by the Founder. The award was established in 1960, and was first presented at the SARA Convention in Dallas, Texas. By action of the National Board in 2004, the Society has renamed this award the Gregson Leadership Award.

Distinguished Building & Synergy Awards

The Distinguished Building Award

recognizes a structure within the city in which the Society holds its convention. Such a structure is selected by the Society for its impact on the city, its design, economic value, cultural statement or engineering accomplishment, and contribution to the overall furtherance of the total architectural profession.

In 1970, starting with the convention whose theme was SYNERGY 1, Synergy...i.e., the simultaneous action of separate parts which together have greater total effect than the sum of their individual effects. Synergy Awards were presented to individuals who had performed an outstanding service to the architectural profession. Recipients may be SARA members or non-members and non-members need not be architects.
